

Research Bites Survey Results

We conducted a survey to understand more about our readers and gather feedback on how we can improve our subsequent issues. Here, we present some key findings from our survey.

Who were our respondents?

61% of respondents are from the social work sector

17% of respondents are from the education sector

Areas that we did well in:

- Articles are not too wordy
- Graphics are easy to understand
- Topics are interesting
- 81% of our respondents found that the amount of information in each article was just nice
- 81% of respondents found that each issue had a sufficient number of articles

Areas that we can improve on:

Greater emphasis on implications of research and evaluation findings in articles featured

- More than 50% of respondents would prefer a greater focus in this aspect

Include more articles on program evaluation

- Respondents indicated program evaluation as their least preferred article type
- However, since we have only featured program evaluation in one past issue, we recognize the need to share more about this important area of work
